

An Unforgettable Day

It was a Saturday morning. When Peter was eating breakfast with Dad at home, he suddenly felt a sharp pain from his stomach. He frowned and said to Dad, "Sorry, Dad! I think I can't eat my breakfast anymore. My stomach is in great pain!" Dad was so worried that he stopped eating his breakfast. As quick as a flash, he took Peter to a clinic near their house. On the way to the clinic, Dad asked with concern, "Peter, how do you feel?" But Peter couldn't answer. He just shook his head.

As it was still early in the morning, there weren't many people in the clinic. Peter and Dad waited patiently in the waiting area until a nurse walked towards them. The nurse said, "Hi! It's time for you to visit Dr Tin. Are you alright?? It seems that you have a stomachache!" Peter nodded his head and explained about how he got the stomachache, "Last night was so hot so I ate a big tub of ice-cream secretly. After a while, Dad told me to drink some milk. I am regretful for eating ice-cream now!" Peter was down in the dumps.

At the doctor's room, Dr Tin first checked Peter's stomach carefully. Then, he checked Peter's chest. He finally put down the stethoscope. He smiled and said, "your stomachache isn't too serious. You just need to take some medicine and rest in bed for a night." He also reminded Peter not to eat too much ice-cream.

Peter and Dad thanked Dr. Tin and then went out from the clinic. They spotted two strong men holding a box. One of them even sweated. Peter and Dad passed the two men and turned left. They were on their way home.

"Ouch!" Dad screamed with his highest pitch. To Peter's startlement, the two men dropped the box on Dad's toes mistakenly! Dad was painful. He kept groaning. The two men were nervous and anxious. They tried their best to pick up the heavy box as fast as possible.

At that moment, Peter was so shocked that he opened his mouth as wide as he could. In an instant, he ran back to the clinic to call for help. Soon, Dad was in the bed of the clinic. Dr Tin said that Dad was fortunate as he didn't hurt his toes badly. The two men felt deeply sorry to Dad. They apologized to Dad and promised that they would pay for the medical fee.

After this event, Peter and Dad also learnt that they should take care of the people who were carrying things. They learnt that they should go away as far as possible. Otherwise, they would get hurt seriously!

Last night, Ben got full marks in the English exam and the weather was hot so his dad and mum bought a gigantic tub of ice-cream to celebrate it. Ben ate a whole tub of ice-cream. In the morning, Ben felt his stomach hurt. His dad took him to the clinic instantly to visit the doctor.

When they arrived the clinic, the nurse walked towards us and asked them to sit on the chair in the waiting area.

After a while, the nurse came and asked Ben, "What's wrong with you?" Ben replied, "My stomach hurt." "You have a stomachache. What did you eat yesterday?" asked the nurse. "Oh! I ate a gigantic tub of ice-cream yesterday because of the hot weather and I got full marks in the English exam," Ben suddenly realized. His dad worried about him.

Then, the nurse left after she asked Ben some questions. After a short while, the nurse called Ben and his father to visit Dr. Tin. He used his stethoscope to check Ben's stomach. Dr. Tin said, "You need to take the medicine and take more rest as you have a stomachache." After they listened to Dr Tin's advice, they went out of the doctor's room and waited for taking the medicine.

After paying the doctor fee and took the medicine, they went out of the clinic when two deliverers were taking a box. The box looked heavy and they were very tired. Their face was full of sweat.

Suddenly, they dropped the box carelessly. The box fell on Dad's toes and he screamed immediately. Ben was worried that his dad broke his toes. Those two deliverers were frightened and they took Dad to the clinic instantly.

Finally, Dr Tin checked Ben's dad. "You are ok. Although the box dropped on your toes, your toes did not hurt. You are very lucky," said Dr. Tin happily. Then, the two deliverers apologized to Ben's dad and he replied, "No problem. But remember to be careful next time!" One of the deliverers said, "Yes, Sir!" Then, all the people in the doctor's room laughed in the end.

At 7 o'clock in the morning last Friday, Justin did not feel well because his tummy was painful. He was lying in bed. Justin's Dad came in and said, 'Wake up! Time to school!' 'Dad, I'm very ill. My tummy is so painful,' Justin whispered. Then Dad took Justin to the clinic to see the doctor. On the way, Justin looked really painful so his Dad was very worried.

At the clinic, the nurse told them to sit in the waiting area for a while because the doctor was busy. After a while, the nurse asked, 'What's the matter? What did you do last night?'

'I've got a stomachache. Yesterday, it was so hot and I was exhausted after the swimming class. And then I ate a big carton of ice cream.'

The nurse said, "Okay. The doctor will see you soon."

Then they were in the consultation room. Dr Tin asked, "Hi, Justin. What's happened?'

'Oh! I'm really painful that my tummy hurts so much!' Justin said slowly.

Dr Tin checked his temperature and replied, 'Don't worry. You haven't got a fever. The nurse told me you ate too much ice cream last night, isn't it?'

Justin just nodded without saying a word. Dr Tin told Justin to take the medicine on time and rest in bed for one day. 'It's okay. You'll get well soon,' Dr Tin comforted Justin. Dad said thank you to Dr Tin and went out of the room.

While they were walking out of the clinic, Dad was scolding at Justin, 'I won't buy you ice cream anymore! You can't control yourself!' At that time, two men were carrying a big box while they were chatting with each other.

None of them noticed one another, so they crashed into one another. The big box dropped on Dad's foot.

'OUCH! My foot!' Dad yelled loudly and attracted everyone came over. Dad's foot bled immediately. When they saw it, they screamed together loudly. Everybody looked at one another in utter bewilderment. Suddenly, they realized that they needed to move out the heavy box from Dad's foot. Dad sat on the pavement and waited for the ambulance.

After a while, the ambulance arrived and took Dad to the hospital. He had to stay in the hospital for a week so he called Justin's mum to take Justin back. After this accident, they learnt a lesson. They should pay attention when walking in the crowded street.

Last Sunday was Mrs Chan's birthday. The weather was nice, so Mr and Mrs Chan planned to go hiking on Lantau Island and visit the Big Buddha there. They went to Lantau by bus because it was comfortable. They were both excited and lively as it was their first time to go hiking on Lantau.

When they arrived at Lantau North Country Park, they were amazed by the magnificent views of the natural woodland and the unspoiled stream. On the spacious grassland, there were many beautiful flowers.

"Wow! What a lovely place!" Mrs Chan exclaimed, "Let's take some photos here!"

Mr Chan then took out a camera and placed his hiking stick against the tree. However, he hit a beehive carelessly. Soon, a cloud of bees flew out from the tree.

"Hey! There are a lot of bees!" Mrs Chan screamed. "Run! Run! As fast as you can!"

They ran quickly to avoid being stung by the bees. However, they dropped their map accidentally as the backpack wasn't closed well. Mr and Mrs Chan finally got away from the bees but they got lost. They couldn't see the Big Buddha anymore.

"Oh no! Where are we now? What should we do?" Mrs Chan said anxiously, "We dropped our map and there are no signals on our phones!"

Mr Chan replied, "Don't be too worried! Let's keep walking and we will find the way out!"

It was getting close to dusk. Fortunately, they came across a village. They saw a villager.

"Excuse me. How long does it take to walk from here to Ngong Ping?" asked Mr Chan.

"It's a long way. It takes about half an hour," said the villager.

"How can we get there?" asked Mrs Chan nervously.

"No worries! I can accompany you to Ngong Ping. I want to do some shopping there," said the villager.

"Thank you very much!" replied Mr and Mrs Chan.

In the end, they got back to Ngong Ping safely and took some amazing photos with the Big Buddha. They were both exhausted but they were grateful to meet the helpful villager. They have learnt that they should plan ahead of time and better hike with some experienced hikers next time. They should also be careful of the beehives in the tree.

An Unlucky Day for Danny and His Dad

5T Hazel Cheng

Last Friday, Mum went to Danny's bedroom to wake him up. "Wake up Danny. It's time for school. If you don't wake up, you are going to be late for you school," said Mum. "I don't feel well. My stomach is painful. I want to throw up a lot," said Danny weakly. "Oh no! I will tell your dad. Then he will take you to the clinic," said Mum. After that, Mum ran down stairs and told Dad. "What happened?" asked Dad. "Danny has got a stomachache. Can you take him to the clinic?" asked Mum. "Sure," replied Dad.

After 20 minutes, Dad and Danny arrived at the clinic. There were a lot patients waiting. "How long do we need to wait? My son has got a stomachache," said Dad impatiently. The nurse replied, "Maybe about forty-five minutes." "Thank you," said Dad. The nurse checked Danny's temperature with a thermometer. Then they were waiting in the waiting area.

"Danny, it's your turn. Please come in," said the nurse. Danny and Dad came into Dr Tin's room. Dr Tin asked, "What's the matter?" Danny said, "I have got a stomachache. I feel very painful. I want to vomit." Dr Tin asked, "What did you eat last night?" Danny replied, "I ate three cartons of ice cream, two packets of potato chips and I drank two cans of cola." Danny felt embarrassed so his face turned red instantly. Dr Tin said, "That's why you've got a stomach. You need to rest in bed for one day and take some medicine. Don't eat too much junk food."

Dad and Danny took the medicine and left the clinic. While they were leaving, there were two workers carrying a big heavy box. They didn't see Danny and his dad. One of the workers said, "This box is so heavy. Be careful, don't drop it." Suddenly, he slipped on a puddle of water and he crashed into Dad. Then he dropped the box on Dad's toes! "Ouch! My toes!" shouted Dad loudly. The worker said, "Oh, no! I'm sorry! Are you alright?" Dad said, "No! My toes were really hurt!" Danny suggested, "Let's go back to the clinic."

When they arrived at the clinic, the nurse was surprised and asked, "What happened? Have you left something behind?" Dad answered, "No, my toes were hit by a heavy box. I feel so painful." Then the nurse took Dad to Dr Tin's room. Dr Tin checked on Dad's toes. "You've got a broken toe. You need to rest at home for a week and you can't go to work," suggested Dr Tin.

At the end, Danny and Dad went home by taxi. Dad said, "What an unlucky day for both of us." After this incident, they learnt that they always needed to pay attention to surroundings.

A Special Hiking Experience

5T Heison Chan

At Dragon Boat Festival, Mr and Mrs Chan went hiking on Lantau Island. “Today is warm and windy. That’s a good weather to go hiking!” said Mr Chan. “Yes! I think Lantau Island is a good place to go because it is famous and I haven’t been there before,” replied Mrs Chan. Before they set off, they prepared many things such as a map, some food and drinks. And then they took the MTR to Lantau Island because it’s the fastest way to go there.

When they arrived at Lantau Island, they went to Ngong Ping Fun Walk. They saw an information board not far away. They walked towards it and checked how far it was from there to the Big Buddha. “It was just four kilometres,” said Mr Chan. While they were walking along the hiking trail, they were looking at the beautiful views. They spent almost an hour to take photos as a memento. However, Mr Chan suddenly realized that they were walking on the wrong way because they couldn’t see the Big Buddha. When he was checking the location on the map, it was blown away by the strong wind. Mrs Chan shouted, “Oh, no! What should we do now?” Mr Chan tried to use his phone to check the location but there was no signal. Then they kept walking but Mrs Chan felt dizzy suddenly. Mr Chan took her to sit under the tree to hide from the sun. Mrs Chan was thirsty. “Oh, I have forgotten to bring our water bottles!” shouted Mr Chan. He tried to shout for help but no one heard him. Fortunately, it started to rain and it became cooler. After resting for a while, Mr Chan asked, “Do you feel better now? Are you okay to walk?” “I am alright. Let’s go,” replied Mrs Chan.

Luckily, they saw a hiker on the way. “Excuse me, do you know how to get to the Big Buddha?” asked Mr Chan. The man pointed to a direction and said, “It’s not far. Just walk down this path and you will see the Big Buddha.” After walking for thirty minutes, they saw the Big Buddha. “Wow! It is amazing! This is the tallest bronze statue I have ever seen.” said Mrs Chan. Mr Chan nodded his head, “It’s stunning. It is the unluckiest hike but it’s also the most unforgettable hike for us!”

Finally, Mr and Mrs Chan took a lot of wonderful photos and they went back home by taxi. They were very tired. After this special hiking experience, they learnt that they needed to bring everything they need before going hiking. “Shall we plan for the next hike?” asked Mr Chan. “Sure. Why not? Make sure we bring our water bottles.” said Mrs Chan.

Yesterday, when Susan and I were leaving the classroom after school, we saw that Tommy was walking and reading in the corridor. He studied hard.

He kept reading the book and walked on. He didn't notice the warning sign on the ground in front of him. "Be careful! Don't slip!" screamed Susan and I. Unluckily, Tommy fell down in the puddle and we were shocked.

He looked painful lying on the pavement. After a while, he was taken to hospital by the ambulance. He broke his leg and he had a surgery and stayed in the hospital for at least three months.

As we all know, now the younger generation has become phubbers. It is too dangerous to do other things while walking. In conclusion, we should pay attention when we are walking on the street.

Dear Diary,

The weather was very hot so I decided to stay home. I won the trophy cup in my school so I was given a straw and a canister. They were made for blowing bubbles. Knowing this, I tested it out in the living room since I didn't have anywhere else to do so. Jane, who was my sister, upon seeing the bubble canister, came rushing to me, begging for me to let her play because she adores blowing bubbles. I replied, "Give me a minute because I want to see if it works." Then, I told her to help me hold the soapy water canister. I held up the straw, dipped it into the soapy water and blew very hard.

At first, it didn't work but after some practice, I succeeded to blow out tons of gigantic bubbles. Seeing the bubbles, Jane couldn't resist her urge to sprint over to the bubbles and pop them. She had forgotten that she was holding the soapy water canister. While she was running over to the bubbles, she was spilling water all over the place. I noticed this but didn't say a thing since I thought it wasn't a big deal.

After Jane popped all the bubbles, she took the straw and was ready to blow. Then, Grandpa just woke up and brewed a tea for himself to drink. While he was going towards the table to enjoy his self-brewed tea. He didn't look towards the ground to notice that there was a water spillage, so he stepped on some soapy water. He slipped and lost his balance, causing him to fall on the ground.

There were bruises all over his body and a bump on his head. He immediately got back up on his feet and, with a serious face, asked us who had spilt the water. Jane admitted that she had spilt the water. Seeing Grandpa's serious face, she thought she was in for it. Out of the blue, Grandpa turned his serious face into a friendly smile and said, "Don't worry, I was trying to find out who made me slip. It is really nothing. Just don't make the same mistake again."

As the quote of Steven Denn, “You can never make the same mistake twice because the second time you make it, it’s not a mistake, it’s a choice.” I think this quote is correct because you already know that your choice is wrong. You have the right or ability to choose, so you are willingly making mistakes. That is basically the meaning of choices.
